

Abstract

The project involved implementing best management practices to a golf course, some field work, and data collection at City Park Golf Course in the Bayou Duplantier watershed.

During the project, infiltration basins, a sediment detention pond, and a wetland were installed to decrease sediment and nutrient runoff. Old sewer lines on the golf course were also repaired to decrease bacteria runoff.